Arbutus

Marina

An old hybrid with modern-day appeal. ‘Marina’ offers exfoliating cinnamon bark, leathery evergreen foliage, and 6”- 8″ long clusters of bell-shaped, pinkish white flowers in late summer. Under favorable conditions, they become handsome red fruits. ‘Marina’ is thought to have been first presented at the European Horticultural Exposition of 1917, and reintroduced in 1984 by the Saratoga Horticultural Foundation. 12′ x 12′, larger in southern climates.
