Hokuto Takaji

Royalty Fee

Deep green, evergreen foliage forms a dense, spreading mat. White flowers in late summer turn into huge white berries in fall that turn cotton candy pink as the weather cools, creating a winter landscape spectacle that is showy and unique. A superb looking specimen that shines in the late summer through winter. Perfect for grouping in a semi-shade area. Outstanding for container use.

Thrives in partial shade and well-drained soil. Feed yearly with an organic fertilizer. Little pruning is needed due to this plant's tight, slow-growing form.
