

Leymus arenarius

Blue Dune

This bright blue, cool-season ornamental grass maintains its coloring throughout the growing season, even in southern gardens. In spring, straw-colored seed heads appear on stalks 8-12 inches above the foliage. Blue Lyme Grass spreads by rhizomes, so it can be used as a tall ground cover, on hillsides, and for controlling soil erosion. Blue Lyme Grass prefers dry, sunny locations in sand dunes as well as in rich soil.
