

Pieris japonica

Historyland Supreme

A very compact plant with an upright rounded growth habit best known for setting its flower buds later in the season. Heavy clusters of white flowers cascade over the entire plant in spring. A great performer in the landscape as a single specimen or small hedge. A low maintenance shrub that is easy to keep at its desired height.

Does best in part shade, in evenly moist, well-draining, acidic soil. 6' x 6'.
