COTINUS COGGYGRIA 'ROYAL PURPLE'

Stunning, deep purple foliage that turns scarlet in autumn, make this easily-grown shrub a standout in the landscape. Airy clusters of tiny, yellowish flowers on branching panicles, cover 'Royal Purple' from late spring to early summer. Once the flowers have given way to seed, tiny hairs attached to the spent flower stalks give them the appearance of billowy, smoke-like puffs. Cotinus tolerates a wide range of soil, as long as it is well drained, and prefers full sun.
